PRISON DELIVERY PLOT BROKEN UP

MEXICO PROTESTS SAN QUENTIN
RACE HATRED OUTBURSTS.

SAN FRANCISCO CONVICT
PLANNED GENERAL RIOT

"Spud Murphy" Transferred to Folsom Rock Pile Along With Lieutenant—Serious Outbreak Averted By Locating Source of Plot.

Gang Leader Defiant
Folsom.—Surly, defiant and proud of leadership of the San Quentin race rioters, "Spud" Murphy, San Francisco convict gangster, openly threatened to start a new outbreak in Folsom prison while being transferred here and confirmed the belief that he would have led a general riot in San Quentin.

The sudden transfer of Murphy and his henchman Falconi from San Quentin to Folsom aroused the gangster to a resentful tirade and a series of open threats. When he learned they were going to Folsom, Murphy turned on the guards in a fury. "We'll give you a shot of trouble if that's what you are looking for. We'll make it tough for you at Folsom."

In Sacramento Governor Richardson praised Warden Smith's administration and conduct, saying: "I am entirely satisfied with the management of San Quentin prison. That prison has been run so long by crooks inside and the unsavory politicians outside that naturally the attempt to put the prison in control of the prison board and the warden has met with tremendous resistance."

San Quentin.—Edmund "Spud" Murphy, convict and former leader of San Francisco gangsters, was branded as the leader of the riotous element in the race feud at San Quentin, and prison authorities frustrated a well planned general riot and possible jail delivery that were to have been attempted.

Discovery of the plot was made shortly after a visit by Governor Richardson, who called at the prison following an official protest by the Mexican government for the killing of three Mexicans in the recent rioting. On orders of Warden Smith, Murphy and Frank Falconi, another convict from San Francisco, who is believed to be Murphy's henchman, were hurried away under heavy guard to Folsom prison, where they were put to work on the rock pile.

Murphy's activities and the disturbance that was threatened were disclosed during Warden Smith's investigation of the recent rioting between Mexican and American convicts that has taken a toll of four lives and many wounded. With the departure of Murphy and Falconi, prison authorities expressed the belief that the disturbances are over and anticipate no further outbreaks.

Warden Smith, in a formal statement said:

"My investigation leads me to believe 'Spud' Murphy is the brains of riotous element in San Quentin. He is very shrewd and clever and has always remained in the background during the disturbances and has never participated in any visible way in the fighting, but I am convinced he is the actual leader of one element in the recent rioting."

"My investigation also disclosed that something big and more serious than the recent sporadic outbreaks was planned. By disposing of Murphy and Falconi, another desperate character and Murphy's lieutenant, we have broken up this plot, for when the prisoners rise in the morning they will find their leaders are gone."

Neither Murphy nor Falconi had been locked in the dungeon with the other twenty-seven riot suspects and were taken from their cells to Folsom prison just before lockup time. Murphy, as custodian of the ball park, had ample freedom, it was pointed out, to mingle among all elements of the prison and was in position to carry out the supposed plot.

Though the formal complaint of the Mexican government to the State department in Washington has been referred direct to Governor Richardson, Warden Smith declared that the governor's visit was "merely a friendly call" and that the riot situation was not discussed.

$250,000 Emergency Bill O. K'd
Sacramento.—An emergency deficiency appropriation bill for $250,000 for channel and flood control work on the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers has been signed by Governor Richardson. The appropriation has been matched in a like sum by the federal government and the money will be spent under the direction of the War department engineers.

25TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. John Brynteson, who, with their family, are here from Sweden for a season, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Saturday by a banquet and a reception to their friends.

The banquet hall at Hotel Vendome had been most artistically decorated for the occasion, sweet peas in profusion being used. At two o'clock one hundred guests partook of the dinner during which an orchestra rendered appropriate music. Following the banquet several speeches were made concerning the delightful occasion.

The party then came to the family home at Campbell where an afternoon and evening reception was held. Here the house and beautiful spacious lawn was prettily decorated with roses and growing plants. The place was brilliantly lighted with beautiful electric Japanese lanterns, adding much to the gaiety of the party.

Vocal solos were sung by the Misses Anderson of Kingsburg and Miss Forsberg of San Francisco gave several piano selections.

Mr. and Mrs. Brynteson were assisted in receiving by Miss Ruth Brynteson, Kermit Brynteson, and Misses Lilly, Lucille and Inga Lill Brynteson. Following the reception, the guests departed wishing the bride and groom all the joys of many years to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Brynteson were married in San Francisco and lived for six years at Campbell returning to their home land, Gotteborg, Sweden, where they have lived most of the years since.

The family expects to start on their return trip to Sweden the first week in June.

Golden State News of Interest to All

While examining a .22-caliber rifle that had failed to discharge in the shooting gallery at a carnival in Pittsburg, Edwin S. Evans, in charge of the gallery, accidentally shot and killed Tony Panfilii, 15.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank most sincerely the many friends who offered and gave assistance and sent flowers and other expressions of their sympathy in my sore bereavement.

Kittie M. Johnson.

THE AQUARIUM--S. F.

A party of which H. W. Morton was a member, were the guests recently of Mr. Alvin Seale, Superintendent of the Aquarium in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, and were taken "behind the scenes" by Mr. Seale.

The glass compartments, through which you look at the different varieties of fish, are nothing else but concrete water tanks says Harold.

Passing through a small gate marked "positively no admittance", the party was escorted up a short flight of stairs to what is called the inside, or working part of the Aquarium, and is a sight seldom seen by any one save the superintendent himself and his helpers.

Here you find the tanks into which you look through the glass from the visitors' gallery. Walking along an elevated platform, you look into the various tanks of fish, etc., and as the water is within four inches of the top, and there are no covers, you can reach in and touch the finny ones. Mr. Seale took the time to explain to the party the different characteristics of different fish, both tropical and domestic. The tropical fish are in tanks of salt water, with an average temperature of 74 degrees, while our common varieties of California trout are in fresh water, and must be kept at a temperature of not over 54 degrees, which is accomplished by the use of ammonia pipes through which the fresh water circulates.

There is one species of small foreign fish which swims backwards only and never below the surface of the water. He resembles a submarine, poking his nose up every now and then, discharging a few drops of water from his mouth, as does a swimmer, with every backward stroke. Another, which is also a surface fish, pugs himself up into a little round ball when enraged or intimidated. He is ordinarily a flat-bellied fish resembling the sole.

Leaving the upper decks, we descended another flight of stairs, going below the visitors' gallery and down into the pumping and engine rooms. Here is located the entire mechanism which is responsible for keeping the fish alive in the tanks above.

There are four centrifugal pumps, run by electricity, which circulate the various waters thru the tanks, up to the larger tank in the roof, and back to the basement and filters once more. The same water is being used that was put there when the Aquarium was built. It is never changed—only filtered and purified through seven feet of sand. This is done every time the water completes its circulation which takes only a few moments.

We asked Mr. Seale what the small Fairbanks-Morse gas engine was for, and were informed that it was to be used in case the other four electric motors refused to work, for if the water stops circulating for a very few moments the fish would all die.

Air is put into the water, not by pumping, but by suction. You have seen the glass one inch tubes sticking down into the tanks and noticed the water going down them, and into the water. You have also noticed the small air bubbles that accompany it. That is the air being sucked down into the tanks. This is accomplished by making loose connections where the glass tubes join onto the water pipes above, and as the water passes from one to the other, through this loose rubber connection, the fresh air is sucked in with a very audible hissing sound.

On this lower floor is also found the "fish hospital," where sick fish are treated and dead ones are dissected in an effort to determine the cause of death.

A fish specialist, who is also a Bacteriologist, is employed in this department, and uses his surgical instruments and test-tubes as does any ordinary specialist or surgeon.

At the time of our visit, this specialist was examining through his microscope the eggs of a

ROSE FESTIVAL DECIDED SUCCESS

It appeared last year as though nothing prettier in the form of a Rose Festival could be created than the one held in the library building, but this year's was even more charming and delightful.

The result was not achieved through more work, but because of the effective outdoor setting and more spacious quarters.

When the hour of opening on Friday evening arrived the corridors and court of the Annex bloomed as a garden, and their beauties were only enhanced when the activities of Saturday were all at their height.

Roses, roses, everywhere in beautiful baskets, pots and tubs. Strings of gay lanterns swayed in the breeze and under the acacia tree in the center of the patio were stands filled with plants and shrubs ready to find new homes in the gardens of the community.

A wonderful May basket of black and white, adorned with brilliant colors was filled with an abundance of delicious home made candies. These were later offered for sale by several of the Camp Fire Girls and on Saturday in dainty May baskets found ready purchasers.

From the stage of the auditorium, which was brightened with quantities of lovely iris in beautiful wicker stands, the president of the Country Woman's Club, Mrs. Ellen R. Smith, welcomed those gathered for the first event of the Festival.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Josef Halamecek, played the opening number, and again at the close. This group of youthful musicians show marked improvement over their earlier appearances of the school year.

Mrs. Chas. D. McMurdo, of Meridian Road, a soloist of gracious and appealing personality, gave a pleasing interpretation of two of the Negro Spirituals, offering a few words of explanation relative to their origin. She had chosen "Deep River" and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and as an encore sang, "The Song of the Hill." She was accompanied by Mrs. Varnon Perrott.

Mr. J. U. Higinbotham was then introduced and he proceeded straightway to elicit a laugh from his hearers, with his characteristic humor. For sometime he conducted the audience thru the highways and byways, the hamlets and cities of Japan, Korea and China. At all points of the journey, the squalor and misery and other unpleasantnesses were ameliorated with a bit of humor or a witty phrase that relieved the situation. And withal, he presented a great deal of interesting knowledge, some of it new, and brightened in interest by the narrator's personal touch.

One of the very pretty features of the festival were the dainty little May baskets filled with French nose gays that were for sale thru out the fête by the younger group of Camp Fire girls.

Saturday afternoon the company gathered in the shade in the patio where punch, and ice cream and cake were being served. In an attractive corner a flower decked table, spread beneath a large Japanese parasol, hung with lanterns, was fairly groaning beneath its load of home cooked foods.

Shut in by artistic garden gates, the east corridor was utilized for the tables where mah jongg and cards attracted a large group, who also enjoyed the program, that owing to the unusually warm day, was given from the doorway of the auditorium.

Miss Emelyn Beattie, a former resident of Campbell, and whose music is always a welcome addition to any entertainment, played two difficult piano numbers.

Campbell has been very fortunate in having a number of musical artists and one of the very popular ones, is Miss Helen Kalas, who sang two very pleasing kkkbb shsg ETAOIN ES Quite fitting for a May Garden party were the two dainty dances

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK PROGRAM

Remember next Monday night, May 11, at the Grammar School Auditorium will usher in Public School Week, a week that marks another important yearly observance, one which you should be vitally interested in, as parents and taxpayers. The nation's greatest asset is the children, and their education is paramount. Education means qualification, the better qualified, the better citizens, and hence the greater the assets. Education of our children through the Public School means Insurance to our nation. Let us all invest in this, the safest insurance.

Mr. Jos. Hancock, County Superintendent of Schools, will tell us what we are actually paying and what we are receiving in return.

Mr. Crooke, speaking on Americanization, will show its value as a national asset.

Come prepared to ask questions. Get busy, show the right spirit, be interested. Last, but not least, our own School Band will entertain with several numbers. Let's go and help the boys.

APPRECIATION

Editor Campbell Press:—

The members of the Country Woman's Club desire to sincerely thank the Campbell Press for the publicity given the Annual May Festival.

They greatly appreciate the untiring work of the various committees and take this means to express their most sincere gratitude to all who assisted in any way to make the affair a success.

VIOLA V. CARBONI,
Corresponding Secretary.

presented by the little Misses Eugenie De Lucchi and Carol Nemy, pupils of Ethel Burrows Matheny. Their fluffy white costumes and silver sandals flashing in the light were quite fairy like.

Another delightful number was the violin duet played by Miss Bernice Bogart and Mr. William Barr, accompanied by Miss Olive Hanger. They responded to an enthusiastic encore, and again in the evening entertained the company at the library hall, where their music was also highly appreciated.

One of the features of the program which appealed to every one present was the talk on "Roses" by Mrs. J. E. Weaver, who has a very beautiful and highly successful rose garden at her ranch home in the Evergreen district about seven miles from San Jose and to which she graciously extended an invitation to visitors. She named and described many varieties of roses, most of which she had on exhibition. She also explained her system and methods of cultivation. As the Flower Lovers' Club and the Chamber of Commerce are urging more extensive rose culture in this valley, Mrs. Weaver's talk will prove very helpful. The speaker commended the club very highly for promoting these Rose Festivals and thought they should be enlarged until Campbell's Rose Festival might become as widely known as Saratoga's Blossom Festival.

Saturday evening the library hall was filled with another group, who were assembled for mah jongg and cards and who enjoyed a very pleasant time. Besides the musical numbers previously mentioned, Miss Olive Hanger played a suite of piano numbers that was very pleasing. At the Club meeting Monday the general chairman, Mrs. E. R. Kennedy was unable to make an itemized report as the returns were not all in but she stated Wednesday that there would be at least $325 clear.

But not only are there financial returns from an event of this kind, but social relations are extended and the beauties and enterprises of our town are brought to the attention of our neighboring communities.

COUNTRY WOMAN'S CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

Monday afternoon the Country Woman's Club held its annual meeting in the Community room.

The president Mrs. Ellen R. Smith, spoke briefly of the successful year just closing both for the club and the library. The librarian reports a much increased attendance at the reading room both for reference work and magazine reading, and a marked growth in patronage of the library. She spoke very briefly of the librarian, Miss Elizabeth Kennedy to whom the Library Association at its recent meeting extended a vote of thanks for her excellent services.

The report of other officers could not be given but will be given at an adjourned meeting, May 18.

The vote for directors resulted in the choice of the five following who met Tuesday and elected officers among their number, Mrs. R. Alison, President; Mrs. R. H. Hyde, Vice president; Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, Treasurer; Miss Jessie Lewis, Secretary; and Mrs. E. I. Price, Director at large.

P. T. A. MEETING

At Tuesday's meeting the Grammar School P. T. A. elected the following officers:

President—Mrs. Schyler.
Vive president—Mrs. Welling-ton.

Secretary—Mrs. Brauns.
Fin. Secretary—Mrs. Knowles.
Treasurer—Mrs. McCoy.
Historian—Mrs. Davidson.
Parliamentarian—Mrs. Grizzle.
Auditor—Mrs. S. N. Hedegard.
Executive Board—Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Bauris, Mrs. Keesling.

The treasurer gave a detailed report of the receipts and expenditures for the year. Briefly the balance July 1, 1924 was $135.51; total receipts for year, $519.55; balance on hand May 1, 1925, $33.96. Practically all of this money was spent on new equipment for various departments of the school.

An exceedingly interesting report of the two Federation meetings held in this county last week was given by Mrs. Schyler. The work carried on by various P. T. A.'s in this section is stupendous. About 250 women were present at the meeting in Los Gatos. Mrs. Schyler said that a sentence in a Woman's Companion gave the whole thought and aim of the P. T. A. work:

"On what today's child does tomorrow—the future of the world depends and the strongest single factor in determining what it shall be is still the home."

Mrs. Fablinger's room received the prize.

The refreshments and decorations were in the hands of the teachers who added much to the pleasure of the meeting.

SANTA CLARA COUNTY CONSOLIDATED

The Santa Clara County Consolidated held its monthly meeting at Morgan Hill Tuesday with a good attendance. Matters of general interest were discussed, several members of the County Board being present. C. H. Whitman and S. G. Rodeck represented the Orchard City at the barbecue.

On motion President Wendell Thomas was authorized to appoint the following standing committees: Roads and Highways, C. H. Whitman, Ray Smith and Cecil Carlyle; Bridges, W. B. Weston, Wm. Denhart and F. D. Cornell.

C. H. Whitman extended a most hearty invitation to the Consolidated to meet at Campbell Tuesday noon, June 2, which was unanimously accepted.

Mrs. Mary Green returned home this week after spending several weeks visiting friends at Bay Point.

MOTHERS AND BETTER HOMES.

We don't know who is responsible, but somebody had a good sense of the fitness of things when Better Homes Weeks was selected as the week of May 11, following Mothers' Day on May 10.

Mothers and good homes are as inseparable as the sunlight is from the summer's day. Sometimes, even in summer, the great clouds gather, momentarily hiding the sunlight and casting a dark shadow. Likewise, sometimes gloom and despair seem to rob the home of all its cheer and happiness. But when mother is there—the real mother love and mother spirit—there can be no permanent shadow, for the light of mother-love premeates the seeming darkness and dispels the gloom.

Many of us associate the Better Home movement with mere houses. It is true that comfortable houses, well built structures, are conducive to better homes. Modern arrangements and appliances are the essence of comfort and lighten the load of household burdens. Good materials, good architecture, pleasing designs, built-ins, fireplaces, furniture, foundations, roofs and landscaping are all desirable in the formation and maintenance of good homes. But it does not necessarily follow that there can not be good homes—better homes—without the finest of these material additions.

The first requisite to a good home is a loyal, loving mother; a mother who has not so far departed from her God-given mission as to either forget or deny:

That the voices of children—HER children—are just a little sweeter than the music at her club's program;

That the flowers that grow in the little plot of ground at the side of the house are just a little fairer than the gorgeous vegetation of the tropical isles of her dreams;

That the little sand piles which the youngsters dig and heap in the back yard are just a little more majestic than the towering Alps she had hoped sometime to see;

That the "drudgery" of her own kitchen sink is just a little more honorable after all than the seeking of fame out among the wiles of the world that ends in bitter regret and lost ambition;

Or, that her divine intuition and inspiration to an equally devoted husband and father is after all just a little more helpful to the world's production and the world's business than any unjust and unequal competition on her part by donning the overalls in the sordid masculine fields of grime and sweat;

Or, that her part in the government of the family circle, her supreme and happy sphere of guiding the destinies of the most wonderful institution on the face of the earth—the home,—is just a little more satisfying than sitting in high positions of states and nations which inevitably fall, while her kingdom of home has never fallen and will never fall unless she falls.

Mother's Day and Better Homes Week is a time for flowers, for deep thinking, and for prayers. It is a time for building houses and ideals. Who could not but wax eloquent; who could not but write the music as he writes the words of the song of Mothers and Better Homes?

MRS. CHRISTINE JOHNSON

Christine M. Anderson was born in North Helsingland, Sweden, January 31, 1840, and died at Campbell, California, May 2, 1925, aged 85 years and 3 months.

As a little girl she came with her parents to Bishop Hill, Illinois, as members of a religious colony. September 27, 1856, she was married to Jonas Johnson. They went up the Mississippi river to St. Anthony Falls, Minnesota, the present site of Minneapolis, making their first home near Waconia Lake.

In 1861 her husband volunteered for service at the call of President Lincoln and for some time she with their two little children, Ephraim and Ella, were left in that part of Minnesota then overrun with hostile Indians. She found it possible later to get to her Illinois home where she remained until joined by her husband at the close of the Civil War. The father of the beautiful boy and girl never saw them again as they had been carried away by an epidemic during the war.

Again the brave young couple started for Minnesota, the husband weakened by fever contracted in Southern swamps, the wife saddened by their loss but taking heart at the safe return of her husband. They now settled, first at Goose Lake, then later near the present site of Delano, twenty-eight miles west of Minneapolis. Here were born, Arthur, now living at St. Paul, Minnesota; William, dying in infancy; Willis, now at San Diego, California; Albert, who passed away in 1915; and Kittie May, living at Campbell, California. Her husband passed on in 1891.

With her daughter, she came to San Jose in 1912, moving to Campbell in 1915. For many years she was a member of the M. E. church.

Last Friday and Saturday she was not feeling very well though she was up and about the house. Saturday, about noon, she lay on the couch for a little rest and peacefully passed on.

Thus a long and useful and beautiful life came to a peaceful close. The heroism and courage of the pioneer, the rearing of a worthy family, the devotion of an earnest Christian and the noble and generous qualities of a good citizen and neighbor were hers and the precious legacy of such a life is ours.

On May 1st "The Busy Bee Confectionery" will take over the agencies for the Examiner and the Chronicle. Kindly pay for April service at the "Peter Pan Bakery."

Miss Alice Duncan is recovering from an attack of flu which kept her in bed for several days.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Herring a daughter, May 2. The little Herring's name is Barbara Eleanor.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Beall and Mrs. C. B. Evans went to Modesto Monday for a visit with friends. They will be gone for about ten days vacation trip to points south. During their absence the drug business is in charge of Mr. Chas. J. Shover, of Los Angeles.

Monday evening the men of the J. C. Ainsley packing force, enjoyed a stag turkey dinner at Hotel Vendome. The boys gave this dinner in honor of Mr. Ainsley, twenty-six of them being present. Shop talk was taboo and all enjoyed a really sociable evening with little frills and no formality.

The regular meeting of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday evening at the library hall. The day of meeting as will be remembered was changed to the second Monday of the month to accommodate a number of members who could not readily attend Thursday. This should be borne in mind and make the attendance better. Several matters of importance will be discussed at this time.

SALE OF TICKETS TO HAWAII

For a Limited Time Only.

Sail to Hawaii, those islands of romance, where the tropic trees flame in bloom, where you may enjoy the wonderful flowers in that exotic atmosphere, ride the surf in outrigger canoes, watch the native boys dive into the jade bay for coins, enjoy the tropical scene—the red roofs glinting in the sun, the palms, and the lilac peaks, while flower girls adorn you with leis, watch the flying fish and the rainbow fish, more unreal and fantastic than imagination could devise, while soft trade winds are whispering through coco palms, and strange Hawaiian melodies are heard.

Pack the clothes you wore last summer, pick up your golf bags and come. It's that easy. You can make the round trip for as little as three or four hundred dollars and you'll find it doesn't cost a lot to stay.

So run the advertisements of the Hawaiian Tourist Bureau, but we are offering you a bargain. If you buy a ticket from us you can make the round trip for twenty-five cents, and you'll find that it doesn't cost as much to stay. You may wear some of the clothes that you wore last summer—and you don't need to bother to pack them, and you don't even need to take your golf clubs.

Just buy a ticket from a Campbell Union High School Junior for the "Love Pirates of Hawaii" for the fifteenth of May.

"In memory, my mother stands apart from all others, wiser, purer, doing more and living better than any other woman."—Alice Cary.

"You have been the best mother—I believe the best woman in the world. I thank you for your indulgence to me, and beg forgiveness for all I have done ill, and for all I omitted to do well."—Dr. Johnson.

"My mother was an angel on earth. She has been a spirit from above watching over me for good. Without her the world feels to me like a solitude."—John Quincy Adams.

"It is to my mother that I owe everything. If I did not perish long ago in sin and misery, it is because of the long and faithful years in which she pleaded for me. What comparison is there between the honor I paid her and her slavery for me?"—St. Augustine.

THE ACQUARIUM—S. F.

dead fish and was endeavoring by this means to identify the germs that killed it. Looking through the "Mike" ourselves, we could easily see the bugs, but we could not tell the Prof. their names, so I guess he will have to find out for himself.

Several very interesting experiments were being tried by Mr. Seale, but it would take a book to tell you about them all.
One of these was an experiment to find out how long it takes salmon, after hatching, to reach the ocean and salt water. He is accomplishing this by putting the young fish in fresh, cold water and adding thereto, one drop per second, of salt, ocean water.

When the salmon have attained sufficient growth, they will swim closer to the top of the tank and to the salt water, which is lighter, and does not mix with the cold, fresh water, in which the salmon spawn are hatched.

The Aquarium is also equipped with a regular fish restaurant, in which are cooked, by electricity, various foods for the various species of fish. Great care is exercised in the preparation of this food, and many new experiments are tried, with new foods, such as worms, etc.

From an economical as well as educational standpoint, the Ac-quarium in Golden Gate park, is rendering invaluable assistance to humanity by continually discovering new species of fish that are edible, and others whose meat is very poisonous.

It costs quite a sum of money to supply fish, even from our own streams, as they must be transported from their natural homes to the aquarium in tanks fitted up exactly the same as their new home. This is done by means of utility trucks upon which are mounted these tanks.

They are then driven from the streams or elsewhere, to the park, and truck and all are taken to the upper floors on an elevator, and the fish deposited in the tanks into which you look from the gallery.

This completed our inspection, and we again journeyed to the main floor, very much wiser and greatly enthused.

Insist on ZEROLENE
even if it does
COST LESS

Where are the SUPERSTITIONS OF YESTERYEAR?

Superstitions don't last long, especially when it costs money to believe in them.

For example, the majority of western motorists have long since stopped paying tribute to the superstition that there is something mysteriously "better" about "eastern" motor oils merely because they cost more and are made in the East.

Zerolene is First Choice of Western Motorists

Zerolene lubricates more motor cars in the Pacific Coast states—high and low priced cars alike—than any other oil made. Six out of the seven trophies in the 1924 Yosemite Economy Run were won by Zerolene-lubricated cars.
The "anti-western" oil bogie simply doesn't hold up. Zerolene increases gasoline mileage, reduces upkeep costs and lengthens engine life,
in high priced cars and motor trucks alike.

Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene even if it does cost less.

Get the Facts!

A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene has been collected in our booklet,
"Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.
